

Veralynn and her son, Christopher relocated to Frederick County in 1996 bringing with her Potomac Financial Services Group, LLC, where she has been a financial services advisor beginning her career in 1980 where she has some client relationships expanding to the fourth generation. Taking from her experience in financial services, Veralynn expanded her career to include Divorce Financial Analysis, when she completed her degree as a Certified Divorce Financial Analyst in 2010 and is the President of Divorce Financial Solutions, Inc. Veralynn is also a trained mediator and is an applicant Volunteer for CALM of Frederick County.

Living and working in Downtown Frederick, Veralynn has the opportunity to serve her community both personally and professionally. She is an active member of Centennial Memorial Church where she and her husband, Richard, began the Youth Ministry Program for at-risk adolescents where she mentors to young women. They are also active in their Church's Homeless Ministry. Participating in several fellowships, Veralynn advises and counsels women in need.

A graduate of Mount Saint Mary's University, Veralynn sits on the President's Advisory Council and, as a member, participates in advising the President of issues facing the University. She is currently in the Mount's MBA program in the areas of Finance and Accounting.

Veralynn brings to the Commission for Women, her passion for service to the community, enthusiasm, and her talents in business and financial management. She serves on the Legislative Committee and was an active participant in the successful Candidate Forum meeting and was a participant in the 2012 Maryland Women's Conference.

Veralynn resides with her husband, Richard Starostecki near Hood College and has one son, Christopher Morris, a state law enforcement officer, and two step-children, Meghan and Cameron Starostecki.